NEW CENTERLINES

Exactly 2167 miles of highways were painted with bright new centerlines in the Lynchburg District during 1950, the State Highway Department reported this week.

Working with the state's normal complement of men and equipment, with no additional paint and with conventional paint and application methods, the district's highway crews worked wonders to produce a record breaking number and length of centerlines under new paint specifications.

The total of the centerlines painted in the district was 2167 miles, which was 641.264 miles more than the previous record established in 1949. Buckingham, Campbell, Charlotte, Cumberland, Halifax and Prince Edward counties are included in the district.

Biologist Names Birds That Have Disappeared

The dodo is gone. This bird, which was become a symbol for anything extinct, was a huge flightless New Ocean island of Mauritius in the East African coast. It was a distinct species of pigeon, and was exterminated as long ago as 1681.

Six of our North American species of birds are just as completely gone. The great auk's last appearance is usually given as 1844 off Newfoundland in the North Atlantic and it too was a flightless bird. The Labrador duck, a large duck once described as the finest wild duck, has not been taken since 1878.

The passenger pigeon occurred in such enormous flocks there seemed no possibility of its extermination. Pioneer it suffered constant persecution being clubbed, netted and shot on the nesting grounds and slaughtered for food or to fatten hogs. It was hunted on the nesting grounds in Michigan to its wintering grounds in Tennessee and Kentucky the last wild one disappearing in 1906. Actually, the last bird, a captive named Martha, died in Cincinnati zoo in 1914. The passenger pigeon was once considered the most numerous bird on earth especially of bird in the world.

Of the four recognized varieties of prairie chicken, one, the heath hen, is gone. Attwater's prairie chicken is now found only five counties of Texas, along the coast where 1700 birds were estimated in 1937. The heath hen was the eastern representative of the prairie chicken. It was crowded to the eastern coast until finally only a few remained on Martha's Vineyard, off the coast of Massachusetts. Here the last survivor was seen in 1932.

THEKICKOFF

Well, boys and girls, last week wasn't so bad, was it? I'm sure those report cards had good marks and each one of you was proud to take them home, weren't you? If you were not, you know what you can do about it, so start studying.

The Appomattox Chapter of the Future Home-makers of America held their monthly meeting February 12, 1951. Plans were made for a Mother-Daughter banquet to be held in April. The Longwood Federation spring rally, state convention and FHA camp were also discussed at the meeting. An identical program to the one given by the club on WFLO in Farmville, was given by Miss Carson, Miss Shuford, Jean Moore, Jackie Poston, Lucy Perdue and Shirley Morris to the entire club during the meeting.

All your parents and teachers had better be on hand at the P.-T. A. meeting Tuesday night, because there will probably be a lot of talk about you! I hear Mrs. Gilbert is leading a discussion on "What kind of Parent a Teacher likes" and Mrs. Bessie V. Caldwell is leading the other discussion on "What kind of Teacher the Parent likes." This should be interesting, so try to be present.

The Junior and Senior Music Club invited the Dramatic Club to see two films on the Telephone Hour during a club period. The members of the Dramatic Club wish to tell them how much they enjoyed these movies.

The Commercial Club will have a Valentine party tonight at the American Legion hall. Members and their guests are invited. Maybe you will find your heart's desire, boys and girls.

Many of the senior boys and girls look all excited about something in the last few days. I wonder if it could be that they have received their application blanks for college?

Girls and boys basketball teams have been playing well in the past week. The girls won two more games and the boys, in spite of losing two more, have shown remarkable improvement. The teams play Brookville at Concord tonight, Thursday, at 7:30.

I will end this week with this poem:
Everything comes to him who waits,
If he waits in a place that's meet;
But never wait for an uptown car,
On the downtown side of the street.
